

ONE2ONE – A short play, by Ben Fairlight

J & R stand, half-facing each other. J is dressed as a witch, R as a fairy. Each has an appropriate hat.

R I am good.
J And I am bad.
R I am happy.
J And I am sad.
R I am clever.
J And I am thick
(both turn to face audience)

Together But we are both twigs
Of the same stick –
Yes, we were friends, once.

R They say I'm a fairy;
They say I'm nice and kind;
They say I bring joy
To all human kind.
J They say I'm a witch;
They say I can't be trusted;
They say my bad luck
Makes things all broken and busted.

Together But we both like apple crumble
With loads of cream & custard!
Yes, we eat the same things.

R I remember when we played in our garden.
J Yes, we used to have such fun!
R Yes, we'd paint some pretty pictures
J And hop and skip in the sun!

J I remember we used to dress up
R And put on funny hats!
J We'd both pull funny faces
R And scare all the dogs and cats!
(both laugh)

Together It's best when we're together
It's best when we join as one
So, let's each wear the hat of the other
(swop hats)
Mmmm!...That feels good, now it's done!

J Now part of me's good
R And part of me's bad
J But it feels alright
R Yes, it doesn't feel sad
J Ooh, I'd like to be a fairy!
R And I'd love to be a witch!
Together And as we're really both the same
Who really cares...which is witch?!

The End
